It is very important for you to contact the Polsky Center before making your discovery public (i.e., through a presentation or publication).

You submit a confidential Innovation Report to document your invention and we will set up a meeting to discuss various commercialization options with you.

We evaluate your submission and assess the commercial potential of the invention.

We identify the best path to market either through licensing to an existing company or creating a startup.

We select and pursue the best protection strategy for the invention (i.e., patent, trademark, copyright, or by other means).

We provide training, mentorship, opportunities for funding, and other resources to support your startup as it grows and seeks revenue, partnerships or an acquisition.

Revenues from the licensee are distributed to you, the inventor, and the University of Chicago.
